

Breeze Airways[™] Announces New Service from Norfolk to New York's Long Island MacArthur Airport and Palm Beach International Airport, from $39 One Way

Norfolk, VA (December 6, 2021) – Breeze Airways, the Seriously Nice[™] new U.S. low-fare airline, is adding two new routes in February from Norfolk International Airport (ORF) to New York's Long Island MacArthur Airport (ISP) and Palm Beach International Airport (PBI), its first new market additions since the airline's debut in May.

With the two new routes, Breeze will now serve 9 destinations from Norfolk:

- Charleston, SC
- Columbus, OH
- Hartford, CT
- New Orleans, LA
- New York/Long Island (2/17)
- Palm Beach (2/19)
- Pittsburgh, PA
- Providence, RI
- Tampa, FL

Breeze will inaugurate four weekly roundtrip flights between Norfolk and Islip, on February 17, operating on Thursdays, Fridays, Sundays and Mondays. The airline then will add a Saturday-only roundtrip flight to Palm Beach on February 19. Fares on both routes will start at $39 one-way.

“Breeze's business model is to add 'nice, new nonstop' flights on routes where only connecting service is offered by other carriers,” said David Neeleman, Breeze's Chairman and CEO. “We’re excited to introduce Breeze service to South Florida and the New York area, and look forward to adding more routes from Norfolk.”
